How is it, Who shall Say?

Chief Justice Dixon, in his recent opinion denying to Booth a writ of hebeas corpus, say: in substance that there are cases arising under acts of congress in which a state court supreme court of the United States. That attempt to legislate upon a ambject not within any of the provisions of the constitution of the on the part of the state and the people be-

It is claimed by him and those who adopt his views, that the constitutional provision which declares that "the judicial power shall extend to all eases in law and equity, United States and the treaties made, or which shall be made under their authority, the supreme court of the United States powlidity of any act of congress or authority of the decision of the state court is against the ralidity of the act of congress or the authority of the United States; that in the judicial department of constitutional government resides the power of declaring what legislative enactments are or are not in conflict with the constitution. It is further claimed by them that the judgment of the highest judicial tribunal, upon the constitutionality of a legislative enactment, is binding upon the people and all inferior tribunals of that government. They also hold that the state courts are inferior tribunals to the supreme court of the United States, in or as to cases arising under the constitution of the United States; that the judgments of the supreme court of the United States in such cases, are of the same binding efficacy upon state courts, as upon the courts of the United States, which are confessedly inferior to it. Now suppose congress should pass an act vesting in the district courts of the United States power and jurisdiction to have persons indicted for murder committed within the states and to try the offender and to pass judgment upon him, and as a punishment should prescribe the penalty of death? A citizen of this state is indicted in the district court of the United States, under the provisions of such an act, is tried, and convictprisoned in the custom house awaiting exethis state for a writ of habeas corpus. In the chief justice, he would not refuse the In such a case there could be no question, that congress would have attempted to legislate upon a subject which is not within any of the provisions of the constitution of the United States, containing grants

Having granted the writ we suppose the chief justice would discharge him from that imprisonment on the ground that the act of congress, under which he was convicted, was auconstitutional and void, and that therethe sabject matter.

But the United States brings a writ of error to remove the judgment into the supreme court of the United States, to be there examined and revised. The supreme court of this state refuse to obey the writ or which it had tried and given judgment in, with reference to the fugitive slave law, in the first of the Booth cases. The supreme examine the record and finally reverse the judgment of the state court and send back a command to it, to render judgment accordingly, and remand the prisoner to the custody of the marshal. Would the chief justice hold that the court should refuse to receive and give judgment accordingly? Taking him at his word we must suppose that he would refuse. But why refuse?why, because congress had attempted to legislate upon a subject not within any of the provisions of the constitution of the United State containing any grant of power. This we think would be a good reason for refuswhy it should apply and govern in this case any more than in the Booth cases. The question, he should most unhesitatingly declare the fugitive slave act void. That the arguments made against it in the supreme court of this state and elsewhere, as matter | goal, but so noiselessly that it is reached and of logic and sound reason, are conclusive. the power of the tyrant established, before We are bound to believe from this statement of his, that had he been on the bench appressor. He does not now act upon the question in accordance with his jown judicial opinion, in consonance with conclusive irrefutable reason and logic. He is as clearly and unbesitatingly of the joninion tion with unexampled unanimity has prethat the fugitive slave law is void as be could be that the law we have supposed would be. And yet with his clear and unhesitating opinion that the law is unconstitutional, with that opinion strengthened and | the democratic leaders of this state, and the sustained by the conclusive and unanswerable logic of the arguments made against it Justice Dixon to the same office and thus FOR CHIEF JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT, in the supreme court of this state and elsewhere, he submits to the decision of the supreme court of the United States upon the subject, holds it to be efficacious and binding upon the supreme court of this state, and be assured, that " he that is not with us notwithstanding the judgment may have is against us." but little or no weight in any other case.

Now why does he thus submit? He has answered. It is because he acknowledges would not be bound by the decision of the the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court of the United States in all cases arissuch a case would arise if congress should ing under the laws of the United States where the decision of the state courts is adverse to or against the validity of the law of United States containing grants of power, the United States. And the supreme court That such a case arises when the power of of the United States having adjudged that congress ceases and the right of resistance | the fugitive slave act was constitutional, and that too, in the very case before the court, he as a judge of the supreme court of this state was bound by that judgment.

Now are there some unconstitutional laws or acts which congress may pass, which will be binding if the sapreme court of the Uniarising under this constitution, the laws of | ted States shall adjudge them to be constitational, and some which will not be binding, even though it shall adjudge them to &c., authorised congress to pass the 25th be constitutional? We think not. If the section of the judiciary act, which vests in act be unconstitutional, it is no more so after than before the court has pronounced its er and jurisdiction to examine and revise judgment. It is not the judgment of the the judgments of state courts, where the va- court that makes it constitutional or unconstitutional. The judgment is only evidence the United States comes in question and of its validity, and that evidence is conclusive upon the inferior courts subject to its jurisdiction. Upon co-ordinate or co-equal courts it is not conclusive, but is to be taken for what it is worth, that is, it is to have that weight, and that only, which the soundness and correctness of the reasoning and conclusions of the court that pronounces it entitle it to; nothing more. Now upon the admission of the chief justice, that the state courts are inferior to the supreme court of the United States in cases arising under the constitution and baws of the United States; that that court has appellate inrisdiction over the judgments of the state courts, in such cases; it is most manifest, States or under the laws of the United that its judgments in those cases are binding upon the state courts, and the question as to how unconstitutional an act of congress may be, how great and flagrant a violation of the constitution it may be, can never arise. An unconstitutional law is void, whether it be unconstitutional or "very" unconstitutional. There is no such thing as a ratid unconstitutional act; for, if valid it is not uncon stitutional: but if it be an constitutional, it is yoid. Now can it be said that the supreme court of the United States has appellate inrisdiction in cases arising under one set or class of unconstitutional acts of congress, and not in cases arising under another class or set? The judiciary act vests the power ed, and sentenced to be hung, and is im- and jurisdiction in all cases where the judgment of the state court is against the validi cution. He applies to the supreme court of ty of the law, and never where the law is sustained. This shows clearly, not only such a case we think from the statement of that there are no unconstitutional laws excepted, but that the manifest intent of con-Liberia. He prefaced that remark with a rope and traveled extensively on the conti-few remarks to the effect that Mr. Davis nent, spending several months in Italy, obress was that power should be vested in the court to reverse every judgment of a state court wherein any act passed by congress was declared invalid, and that in no case should there be a final judgment against court of the United States. The chief justice, and all who admit the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court of the United States, if they would preserve fore the judgment of the district court would their consistency, would be compelled, in he a nullity, it having no jurisdiction over the case of the citizen convicted of murder and sentenced to be hung, by the district court of the United States, to admit the binding efficacy of the judgment of the supreme court of the United States upon the constitutionality of the law under which he is supposed to have been sentenced, and in make any return whatever, because, as they the dilemma in which they have placed judge, the act is so palpably and clearly themselves to exclaim, " let him hang." void, as to confer no jurisdiction upon the This is the result and consequence of the district court, and that therefore the case position of the chief justice, and his little stump speech in the belly" of his opinion was not a case arising under the constitution cannot help him out. Take the other and nor any law of the United States, because the true ground. The ground occupied by being unconstitutional, it was no law, just the republican party and their candidate for as the supreme court of this state did say, chief justice, that the state courts are not inferior to the federal courts in any case: that their judgments are final, and not subcourt of the United States however permit ject to review in the supreme court of the a certified copy of the record of the state | United States; that the supreme court of court to be filed in the case, and proceed to the United States has no power to make an unconstitutional act of congress constitutional, nor bind "the states, their officers nor the people thereof" by such judgment, and there can never arise any difficulty; the state courts will continue in the exercise of their constitutional powers, keeping in the mandate? Or would be say, receive it | check the spirit of expansion now so rife in the courts and other departments of the general government. By this means we shall effectually resist the incipient step taken by the judicial power to sap the foundations of liberty, and undermine the very ground-works upon which the rights of the people and the states was supposed by the fathers of the republic to securely rest. [Correspondence of the Daily Guzette.]

Madison, March 16th, 1860. Last evening the Gazette arrived containng the letter of Judge Sloan; the letter is satisfactory to republicans and state's rights men. We had but little doubt in regard to he has defined his position; it has releived many who felt they had been once deceived, and preferred to not run the risk again; de fining his position has taken away the only barrier to his election. A few of the political wire-workers of the state would perhaps have preferred to vote blind on this question, but the great mass of the people prefer knowing how a judge stands on a quesvery freedom. They knew how Judges Paine and Dixon stood and it was right they should understand the position of Mr. Sloan. | preme bench. The democracy are terribly stirred up in recalled him the main candicate, now of course the cry is "a decision in advance;" they are with them consists in the knowledge that he is certain to be elected. Fred. Horn introduced a resolution this morning burlesquing the Judge's letter, but it was returned as being disrespectful to the house. Poor Fred! he has some talent but wofully perverts it. Last night Senator Gill made a long speech to prove that republicanism was bottomed on abolitionism; if he did not convince himself that the republicans were in favor of abolishing starery, he did convince his audience that the democratic party was in favor of abolishing freedom.

The legislature is now working faithfully and will perhaps adjourn on the 27th, though they have much to do yet. The people will not be satisfied without a revision of the assessment laws, and the reduction of interest, and we hope the legislature will accomplish the work.

THE HOMESTEAD BILL.-The democrats in the senate are endeavoring to kill the homestead law, by substituting the proscriptive measures drafted by Senator Johnson, of Tennessee, for Mr. Grow's liberal bill, which recently passed the house. Mr. Johnson's bill excludes from among those who shall have the benefit of the public lands, single men over 21 years of age, widowers without children, and foreigners who may declare their intentions after the passage of the bill, and only allows those who may be racipients of land under the bill, to receive alternate sections.

In the Maryland senate recently Dr. Lynch of Baltimore county offered an order appropriating $500 to the colonization society to send Henry Winter Davis to loss would not be felt, and that he might find a field of labor, immortalize his name, and live honored and respected in the col-

An appropriation of ten cents for lamp black to beautify the face and hands of this worthy representative of the "Lynch" family, (no disrespect to Tom, the hero of the old white hat,) and his transportation on a free pass to a Mississippi plantation would have been a fit sequel to the order he introduced into the body he dishonors. The only difficulty in the case is, he would disgrace the "niggers" with whom he would be compelled to associate.

BIENNIAL SESSIONS .- The legislature of Obio has adjourned to meet in January next. They do this every other year, and . in this way avoid the constitutional provis ion for biennial sessions. It is found that a session of the legislature once in two years is impracticable for a state like Ohio. We hink it would be even more inconvenient in a new state like Wisconsin, and although there are numerous advocates of this doctrine in this state, we hope it may not be adopted here for many years to come. If it shall be, we think that some such expedient as that of adjourning over will be the result

The Charleston convention will vote by states, each state casting as many votes as n the electoral college; but by a resolution adopted at Cincinnali, the convention will se composed of twice as many delegates as voters. Classified into free and slave states, the former will send 336 against 240 from the latter. Besides these, the members of the national democratic executive committee have seats on the floor of the convention, but no votes. They are thirty-three in number. Moreover, it is customary to admit distinguished members of the party to the floor of the house as a courtesy; so that the convention will be composed of about 650 members. Judge Sloan's Letter.

The Free Democrat publishes the letter of Judge Sloan in relation to state rights, and night was continued until eleven o'clock.pronounces it eminently satisfactory. It They passed the senate bill taxing railroads says that it relieves the position of Judge Sloan from all doubt, and calls upon the friends of righteous principles to see that his majority don't fall below ten thousand. The Free Democrat farther remarks:

Never since the supreme court made its first decision in the Booth case, and laid the state rights doctrine fairly before the people, have the people once faltered in ratifying and sustaining that doctrine. The democracy since then have triumphed in state politics, but never once on a question which involved this issue. The election between Cole and Crawford was the first test on it. The democracy had been and were then unquestionably in the ascendant, and Craword was their candidate. He was also supported by at least two republican papers and we are not sure but more. No one, not even republicans, expected his defeat. But Cole beat him by nearly five thousand votes. A clearer and more satisfactory indication of the public sentiment could not have been had. So it has been since uniformly.

The question is now before the people again, more fairly and squarely if possible than ever before. Can there be any reasonable doubt of the result? Have the people changed? Will they falter? That tyranny of the federal power, which has heretofore been only an abstruction, is now brought as a reality to our doors. A citizen of the a reality to our doors. to the Judge's sentiments, but rejoice that state in violation and derision of the solemn action of its highest court, is in prison, watched over by the hired mercenaries of that power, for a claimed violation of the fugitive act. All fear and danger of any collision with the federal authorities may possibly have passed forever away, but does extremely hard to please, and the trouble now not every voter know if we would preserve our liberties, if we would save the Union, and perpetuate the republic, such laws, and ractices under them must be wiped out. Don't they perceive clearly that our government, under the supremacy of the slave power, has been changed into the same and of a despotism that slavery necessarily is, and if they would restore the govern-ment to its original character and the purpose of its founders, that present rulers must be overthrown and present influences changed? Knowing all this, will they fail on an occosion so important as this of the election of a chief justice of the supreme bench, to strike one more blow towards the great work of regeneration to be accomplished in November next? Will they alow the great adversary of all good, incarnated in the democracy, to get new encour agement, and inspiration to new effort by the success of Dixon. We are sure they will not, A Scott Sloan stands forth as worthy the votes and efforts of all the friends of repubicanism, and what are more distinctly known as state's rights principles. Of ex cellent ability, unimpeachable in all spects in character and habits, he may be voted for by every lover of the republic, and of the best interests of humanity, with the itmost confidence. Rally, then, freemen of Wisconsin. Let our expression be more emphatic than ever before, by rolling up for Sloan such a majority as no republican can didate has ever before reached.

The $100,000 Breach of Promise Case

The principals in this interesting trial, now in progress for the second time, at St. Louis, viz: Henry Shaw, the defendant, Louis. and Miss Effie Catharine Carstang, the plaintiff—are thus described by the Demo-erat of that city:

"The defendant, Henry Shaw, has been a resident of St. Louis for forty-one years. He was formerly a merchant, and acquiring great wealth, retired from business as long ago as 1831. Subsequently he went to Eu serying the arts and artists of that country. From early youth botany has been his favorite study, and while in Europe Mr. Shaw improved every apportunity to gather uformation, or profit from the experience of others, on this subject. In personal ap pearance Mr. Shaw is of medium height hearty complexion, rather sharp in features with blue eyes, and possessed of great sunvity of manners, in short one of the politest of St. Louis. His age is between filty and sixty, his hair tinged with gray. His wealth is variously estimated between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000. On the corner of Seventh and Locust streets his city residence forms quite an ornament to the locality. It is a three story brick building, with a wing in the shape of an L, built in rather a quaint style of architecture, and has a carriage entrance on Locust street. About ten years ago Mr. Shaw became the possessor of a tract of land, 600 acres in extent, situnted in a southwesterly direction from the Court House, on the old Manchaster road.

At that time it was a barren prairie, but the wealth of the proprietor enabled him to transform the wilderness into a comparative Eden. The plaintiff, Miss Effic Catherine Carstang, has lived in comparative obscurity till the commencement of the present proceedings. She came to this city in the year 1854, and has resided on Fifth street, between Franklin avenue and Morgan, with Mrs. Seaman, her sister. Her acquaintance with Mr. Shaw commenced during the year 1856, and the promise to marry is alleged to have been given in November, 1856. In personal appearance Miss Carstang is rather tall in figure and withal graceful, has dark hair, brilliant eyes, blonde complexion, and a firmness of feature indicating the decision of character which has marked her participation in the present suit since its inception. We should judge the lady to be on the shady side of thirty, and not unattractive in point of personal beauty. She has maintained a remarkable perseverance throughout the whole trial, and accompanied her counsel personally to New York and other places, gathering testimony in her own vindication. The attempt to compel her to give bonds for payment of the costs was unsuccessful, the motion therefor having been denied by Judge Rober .-Pending this matter, Miss Carstang proved the ownership of property reputed to be worth about $3,000, consisting of promis-The New York Journal of Commerce says sory notes, secured by a mortgage on land on the Southwest Branch of the Pacific will be in session two or three weeks, coma bill to protect female passengers. It only remains for either branch of congress to concur in the action of the other, a matter more of form than substance, the two bills are similar in their provisions. Such an arrangement will probably be consummated during the present week. The special committee of the house on the Pacific railroad discussed the various propositions yesterday, and will resume the subject to morrow with intention of taking a decisive vote on Thesday.

All the indications warrant the belief that they will report again in favor of the roads one of which is already begun under the auspices of J. Thompson, Mr. Stevens and various railroad men, and the other along what is knowned as the Central route, stretch ing from St. Louis to San Francisco with a branch extending to Oregon in the hands of northern railroad interests.

The committee has not reached the point of the propositions of land and money to be appropriated, but the bill which contem plates two roads proposes an advance of $10,000 after the first fifty miles is built and equipped, to be continued as each other fifty miles is constructed and the government being secured by an original mortgage on the road and property direct, Information was laid before the demo-

AN OLD DISPUTE SETTLED .- The Jackson County (Black River Falls) Banner says: The title to a major portion of our village plat so long in dispute, is at last amicably arranged, and the necessary papers to consummate the bargain are signed, sealed and delivered. The difficulty has been arranged by a compromise and division-Mr. Spaulding retaining the mill and privilege of water to run it, three houses and lots, and a portion of land immediately adjacent to the mill for its benefit. The other party, consisting of Messrs. Jas. II. Knowlton, E. M. Williamson, Wm. S. Hungerford, and J. G. Knapp owning and coutrolling the remainder of the real property and the balance of water power.'

THE QUESTION OF NOZZLES .- All our Gremen, and most of our citizens, will recollect the dispute about nozzles which accompanied the introduction of our fire engines into the city. Here is a chance to revive the question:

A man in New York has invented a new nozzle for hose pipe. The invention consists of three nozzles of different sizes fastened to a revolving plate eccentric to the end of the pipe, so that by simply turning the plate either of the nozzles can be brought to the end of the pipes. The advantage is that when it is necessary to change from a small to a large stream, or the reverse during the progress of a fire instead of having to unscrew the pipe, the change can be made by simply pushing upon

WHY IS THE DIFFERENCE ?-- At least two democratic papers have come to our office enclosing a pamphlet published at the Milwankee News office containing Douglas', and Jeff, Davis' replies to Senator Seward's speech. The News has given notice that it has printed 20,000 copies of this pamphlet for gratuitous distribution. We are not permitted to enclose a handbill for one of our merchants in our paper even by paying a cent postage on each. Now why is this difference? Is the post office an exclusive "democratic" institution, and is the 20,000 copies of that pamphlet to be distributed in that manner? Will some competent authority enlighten us?

A fire occurred at Rockford, Illi nois, on Friday night, which destroyed the Winnebago hall and several other buildings adjoining. Loss $60,000; insured $13,000. Supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

The Lynn strikers had a procession on Thursday numbering 6,000 persons .-

The spectators were double that number. A warehouse was burnt at Savannah, Ill., on the 17th, which contained 76,000 bushels of corn.

"The lawyers of Wisconsin have promise The Irrepressible Conflict! MARCH 1st, 1860. of a rich harvest for long years to come from the unsetting of our whole system of taxation by the recent decision of the supreme court in regard to the railroad tax, If this decision operates to the extent generally conceded, no tax has been legally assessed since the passage of the railroad law now declared unconstitutional. This decision and the one in regard to what consti-tutes general laws, in the Mineral Point county seat case, will afford a wide field of controversy and go far to destroy confidence in the stability of our legislative and judi-cial character."

So says the Madison Journal. We have conversed with good lawyers who are of opinion that the recent decision of the subreme court does not affect the legality of the taxes generally. We confess we cannot understand the grounds on which they base their opinion. The court decided that the mode of levying railroad or plankroad taxes violated that provision of the constitution which requires that all taxes shall be levied by a uniform mode. If the mode in which these taxes were levied destroyed the uniformity of the mode of levying taxes, how could it fail to affect all the taxes ?-We shall be glad to give place to any clucidation of the point by a competent hand,-Free Dem.

The same view is taken by at least some of our citizens of the effect of this late decision as followed the decision in relation to the provision in our city charter discriminadegrades himself as to get beastly drunk in | ting in the taxation of farming lands within the city limits. Between the laws regulating taxation and the decisions of the supreme court, everything is in a beautiful state of uncertainty, and the lawyers will have fat pickings in unraveling the mystery.

NEW GOODS "About the first of April, take a few large turnips and cut out the hearts of them to form a sort of cup. Fill the cavities with earth, and plant two or three tomato seeds in each. When the seeds have well sprouted, pull up all but the healthiest plant in each turnip, and let those that remain stand where they will have the benefit of the same the plant will grow very thrifty—the decaying turnips furnishing its food. When the weather becomes sufficiently warm, set the turnips in a well prepared soil, not less than three feet apart, make lath frames to keep the vines from the ground, and keep th soil well killed up around them, and you will astonish the natives. The advantages consists in getting the plants started early without setting them back by transplanting."

THE RELIGION OF PAYING DESTS .- One of the religious papers has the following strong remarks on the subject. They drive the nail up to the head and clinch it:

"Men may sophisticate as they please .-They never can make it right, and all the bankrupt laws in the universe cannot make it right for them not to pay their debts.— There is a sin in neglect as clear and deserv ing of church discipline as in stealing or false swearing. He who violates his promise to pay, or withholds the payment of a debt when it is in his power to meet his engagement, ought to be made to feel that in sight of all honest men he is a swindler Religion may be a very comfortable cloak under which to hide; but if religion does not make a man deal justly, it is not worth having.

Non-Explosive Burning Fluid USED WITH SAFETY & ECONOMY.

The Best in the Market. Palmer's Drug and Tea Store.

We have, for several years past dealt largely in 1 BURNING FLUID, and have always, thus far, 1 leep fully up to the times, in any improvements made in its manufacture. Nearly a year ago, in an appeal in favor of its more general use, based upon the hee that the raw material from which it is neads is mainly the product of our carn farms, we publicly announced that there was, at the temperature at which it is generally used, "no explosive power whatever in Burning Fluid, as more made, by those who understand the business in which they are engaged. That injury from its use was either the result of gross earciessness, or of under alarm carned by a belief in its explosive power," &c. Since then the result of gross earciessness, or of under alarm extense have manufactured and soid thousand of gallons to consumers is this city and yieinly, and if our assumption was use erroneous one, it would undoubtedly have been discovered me this.

We are prepared to submit our Flaig to any test the public may call for, satisfied that, with ordinary care, no safer, belief or norra agreeable light can be produced. As we are indebted to no traveling "Prof. Julen.—O!" for the high state of perfection attained by us in its manufacture, we are, as usual, prepared to effer our Fluid at the LOWEST MARKET FIGURES, and to guarantee entire satisfaction in its use, or the money retunded.
